The President's Message

Greetings Charmette Sisters:

What a Spring! The COVID-19 pandemic has rocked our sense of security as individuals, a nation and as an organization. We want to know more and recognizing our “new normal” carries much uncertainty, still we continue to try to meet the challenges we face.

Many of us are, or know someone who is an “essential” worker. Some of us are working from home, some are not working, and we are not sure when/if our children will be able to return to school as we knew it. Our prayers are with members who have had to mourn the loss of family and friends during this time. And there are those of us who have been and are directly affected by this virus and we continue to pray for you. We also remember those whose family and friends are residents in health care facilities and pray that you have found ways to connect in spite of the restrictions on visiting.

We are mindful of the differences local, state and national officials are having in making determinations as for our present and future behavior. This is a time that we could not have imagined a year ago and so we are in need of new information. In essence, what can we learn from this teachable moment. A teachable moment that allows the organization to arise above the “unknown” and grasp hold of the opportunity to offer new innovation and new insight to move forward in serving our communities. An opportunity that must be sensed and seized NOW! As we move forward to support our members and chapters, we also look inward to understand what these changes mean for us as individuals.

We are an organization that values our relationships and connections. Now we must create additional way and venues for our work. As we embark upon our Seventieth Anniversary in 2021, I am excited about the future of The Charmettes, Incorporated and the new opportunities and new possibilities that we face together. As we recognize the changes we are seeing, we are working to secure ways for our organization and members to interact and to serve our communities in this different environment. Over the next several months we will be seeking input from chapters and members as to how we can be efficient and effective, even as we may have limitations on our face to face opportunities.

The Charmettes, Incorporated will continue to stand strong, we are All in this together and I thank each of you for desire and commitment to continuing to serve your community

I hope you are able to find a quiet moment to step back from the whirlwind around you and find joy, peace, enjoyment and especially a safe summer!

Sisterly,

Catherine D. Lewis

National President

Mother/Daughter High Tea

Our chapter hosted a Mother/Daughter High Tea that received high praise from all in attendance. It was an opportunity for our Debutants to bond with their loving mothers and create memories that will last a lifetime.

COVID-19's impact

The ripple effects of the global pandemic forced our Chapter to pivot and reschedule our calendar events, including our signature Debutant Presentation.

While our Debutants and families were looking forward to this grand event, our members decided to err on the side of caution and not put anyone in harm's way with a large gathering during the height of the national response.

However, if appropriate, we are working hard to bring a modified version of this signature event this year.

Charmettes in the news

We continue to celebrate our sisters making headlines for their good deeds. In March, Charmette Diane Sheffield joined an elite assembly of local leaders honored annually for Women's Month through the Tallahassee Democrat, the capital newspaper. Here's snapshot of that article:

25 Women: Capt. Diane Sheffield 'always wanted to help people'

As the middle child in a pack of 10, Capt. Diane Sheffield remembers growing up in Madison County in a house that was the hub of the neighborhood. "My mother cooked every day," she says, "and people would come over because they knew they would get a good meal."

When she moved to Tallahassee in 1980 for school, she brought some of that home cooking — and an intrinsic sense of compassionate leadership — with her. She earned a degree in criminology from Florida A&M University and relocated to the St. Petersburg area to work in a work release program. "I thought about going into social work, but I knew I wanted to work in detention," she says resolutely. "I always wanted to help people."

She returned to Tallahassee in 1994 to join the Leon County Sheriff's Office Department of Detention, where she worked her way through the ranks to lieutenant in 2016 and then in 2018 was promoted to Captain. With that step, she became the first black female to obtain the rank of captain in the county. This year, she adds being one of Tallahassee 25 Women You Need to Know to her growing list of accomplishments.

Information from South Carolina Midlands

Charmette Annette Hammond, new member of the South Carolina Midlands Chapter hitting the ground working. Charmette Annette Hammond – Founder of local nonprofit Blanketing Families host “I’m Booked” community campaign.

Charmette Annette Hammond was featured on (WOLO-25) on Thursday, June 18th, as she hosted the “I’m Booked” community campaign. The campaign promotes literacy and encourages kids to read during the uncertainty of COVID-19 and protests against literacy around the world.

She notes that there is so much going on in and outside of our communities and the world. A lot of our children just get caught up in the distractions that takes them away from the important things in their life and what they really need to do. Charmette Hammond stated “we want our children to continue to read, – Reading is information, Reading is Power. If you can master the information, it gives you the power.” Thanks to the many donations, the organization was able to give books and blankets to 100 local children.
